These are moments we will always cherish, for here was the beginning for us. The beginning of the achievements of self-understanding, academic rewards, and social involvement. As students of Bennett College we are the Black leaders of tomorrow, using our talents to reach great heights among our own and to enter as well qualified young women in our chosen fields selected during the course of our involvement here. Our academic excellence is due not to our own enrichments, but to those who helped us to achieve.

As Freshmen, we came unknowing. There was our orientation that guided us in the beginning of the year. But it did not stop here.

In our classes we were taught how to excel to become professional in our fields.

In the creative arts we did our best and we attained the highest rewards by taking pride in our own.

As black Madonna or

as May Queen,

we and our courts show our beauty and talents that stem from deep within.

Often camera shy, we are taken aback by the sudden shutter of the flash cube.

As a class, we use our talents to display to other students our history in order that we may help them to relate to themselves and to focus on what we have to do in the future.

Even at work we seek to achieve.

Whenever glimpsed upon, the contents of this book will remind us of the efforts of so many, which were brought to bear upon our present degree of readiness as we stand prepared to enter into various other phases of our lives.

The 1969 Bennett Belle is dedicated to Mrs. Mary T. Coleman in gratitude for the role that she played in the earliest stages of our preparation. As Director of Admissions, it is she who was responsible for our being where we are today.

This yearbook is dedicated not with egotistical pride in our own achievements as a monument deserving of praise, but rather, in humility as an indication of our appreciation to you, Mrs. Coleman. We are grateful for the education we have been able to acquire as an indirect result of your efforts and assure you that they have not been in vain.

With our instructors, we often pause for the laughter that makes life worthwhile.

As lecturers we try to hold the interest of our student body and our guest.

When alone, we ponder over the events of the day and receive satisfaction for deeds well done.

For great moments, as the inauguration of our President, we welcome all those who come to be joyous with us.

Tribute

The Class of 1969 would like to pay a tribute to one of its most dedicated teachers, Dr. Francis Grandison.

Dr. Grandison has devoted many years of service to Bennett College, and we feel this tribute is but a small way to say thank you.

And in our moments of leisure, we all pause to enjoy life and activities.

PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT

Much is said today about the need to make education more relevant to the specific needs of the individual. It seems appropriate to suggest that all knowledge has relevance — the meaning is there, but man must find it and relate it to his condition. Bennett College is dedicated to the task of developing in her students the capacity to make the crucial correlations. The people who will make a significant impact on our society will be those who can identify the critical needs of man and commit their lives to meeting these needs. We like to think that this type of readiness characterizes the Bennett Student.

We take much pride in the Class of 1969 for we are confident that among its members there are many who will ask the important questions and provide the crucial answers. We are confident that this is a class of young women who are ready to provide the creative and responsible leadership which is needed for a new society. As the graduates move to the next level of creative endeavor, the prayers, best wishes, and hearty congratulations of the Bennett Community go with them. We are a part of each other and are keenly aware that the extent to which this institution has served its objectives will be measured by the successes of the graduates, and the degree to which they become change agents in society.

The Yearbook keeps alive and fresh the many memories of college days. This record of a very important interlude, captured in picture and word, academic and informal, will have ever increasing significance as the years gather. We express sincere appreciation and congratulations to the Yearbook Staff for capturing so effectively the flavor of the Bennett Experience.
